Wedding To Lead Lions Fun Night

A large portion of the Tuesday meeting of the Hamlin Lions Club was devoted to discussion of the Womanless Wedding and Style Show to be staged by that organization Friday, March 17, at the high school auditorium.

Parts were assigned to the different members of the club and the entire organization was informed that they would be expected to perform in some capacity during the evening's entertainment.

A number of variety acts will be offered in addition to the main features of the evening. No information has been issued as to who is to enact the principal roles in the Womanless Wedding and the suspense will add to the interest of the public in the performance.

Entertainment for the Tuesday meeting was arranged by Walter Chalcraft and he was successful in arranging for the appearance of the Abilene Christian College quartette, composed of Dick Daughtry, Harold Lipford, Don Hall and Don Flinto. These young men performed without accompaniment and rendered a group of difficult songs that earned the admiration and appreciation of the club.

Forty-two members were present and guests were W. J. Fletcher III, and Vernon Lindquist.

Fire Smoulders All Day Saturday

Fire, which was believed to have originated from an overheated bearing, destroyed a major portion of the Midwest Cooperative Oil Mill in Hamlin Saturday. First alarm of the fire was sounded at about 6:45 a. m. Saturday and a part of the volunteer fire department spent entire day at the mill as a precaution against further outbreak of the fire.

Fire originated in the press room of the mill and quickly spread to that portion which is used in housing the mechanical equipment. Character of the material processed made it readily inflammable and made the work of the fire department difficult in controlling the blaze.

Early in the morning a sharp change in wind direction caused greater danger of spread of the blaze and it was decided to call for aid from the Stamford department. An immediate need for additional water was apparent and sufficient hose was not available to reach the larger water supply. Stamford's Fire Department made the run to Hamlin in 22 minutes and water was directed on the fresh outbreak immediately after their arrival.

Oil saturated cotton seed continued to smolder throughout the day and resultant smoke prohibited ready access to the smoldering spots. A drenching process was employed throughout the day.

Extent of loss in equipment is difficult to estimate and company spokesmen could not accurately gauge what the damage would be. Manager John A. Edwards in Abilene issued one statement that the loss may reach as much as $150,000.00.

It was announced that work of rebuilding the plant will start immediately and there is some possibility that limited operation of the plant will be possible for the rebuilding period. Lint room, the stock room and raw materials escaped serious damage.

J. B. Eakin, cashier, estimated that the plant season still had about four months to operate. This is the third fire the mill has experienced in the last five years. The plant is located about one mile from the city limits of Hamlin and employs about sixty men in its operation.

Plans for the store include a complete face-lifting for the site from the north wall back. An entire new front and sidewalk will be built and old floor will be raised to present a business house that will compare with any in the area, according to information furnished by the management.

When completed, after an estimated five weeks, the store will offer a 50-foot front.

He was accompanied by Mrs. Park on his arrival here.

"Cooker" Demolished By Flames

Pictured above is the unit most damaged in the blaze at Hamlin's oil mill, which gives some indication of intensity of the fire which gutted that portion of the plant. This cooker was charged with a portion of the day's production and intensity of the heat resulted in an explosion of the vessel. This, and other parts of the plant's machinery must be replaced.

Exterior of Oil Mill Shows Extent of Damage

Success Marks Country Club Drive

Response to the movement for improvement in the golf course in Hamlin with a new clubhouse as an ultimate goal has met with an enthusiastic response from those citizens who have been approached by the committee.

It is reported that approximately 98 persons have signified their intention of participating in the new enterprise and more prospective members are still to be interviewed.

Need for a structure that may be utilized for civic functions is keenly realized by the citizens and cooperation has been most gratifying to the group which is fostering the movement.

Included in the plan for the club is a project for grass greens on the golf course and many latent golfers are reviving an interest in the game as a result of the anticipated improvement.

Women of the town are taking an active part in the work and small groups are forming as individual clubs to play weekly dates.

The committee has been handicapped in including new residents of Hamlin on their prospect list and have issued a plea that those who have not been approached ask for information. Teddy Russell and Earl Smith have volunteered to assist these prospects at the F & M Bank.

Neely Points To Socialism Trend

Speaking to more than 300 Friday night at the annual Hamlin Chamber of Commerce banquet Harold G. Neely, independent oil operator from Fort Worth, warned that this country is headed "down the road to socialism" in speaking to attendants. The banquet was held in the Elementary School Gymnasium.

Neely predicted that someday the government will take over the farms and make them federal land in this country if it continues its system of subsidies. "For it has happened in other places and it is happening here," he said.

Continuing, he said, "I suppose many of you have been receivers of that benevolence called the subsidies. The subsidy is a fallacy made necessary because certain groups become over balanced. Thus it becomes a vicious cycle, and we are now reaching the most vicious point in that cycle."

Neely compared Harry S. Truman with Huey Long, late Louisiana governor. "Long said, 'Everybody needs to be a King,' you remember, and it hasn't been long since Truman said, 'Everybody needs to make $12,000 a year.' You are on the road to a Socialistic Utopia," he said. "I don't know what that is, but I'm personally against it. I'm pretty well satisfied with the old system."

"Don't sell your birthright for a mess of porridge," Neely said in closing his talk.

Guests from 10 neighboring cities were present for the banquet. Entertainment was furnished by the "Nauseating Nine" from Abilene Christian College. Mrs. B. T. Nunley sang two solos accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Henry Albritton.

Walter P. Chalcraft, band director of the Hamlin High School Band and a graduate of McMurry College, Abilene, served at toastmaster. Invocation was given by Lee E. Rawlings, minister of the Hamlin Church of Christ.

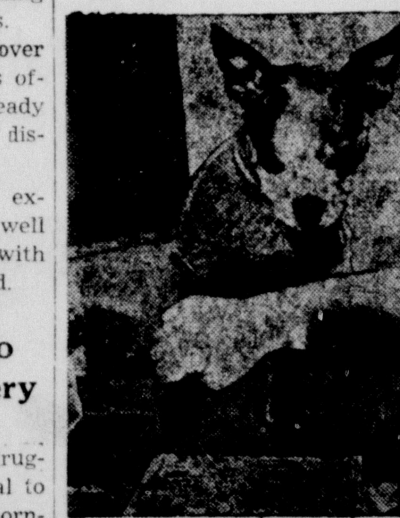

Eddie Jay, Hamlin farm implement dealer, was introduced as Hamlin's new Chamber of Commerce president, succeeding Haskell W. Carter.

John C. Bryant, manager of the local Bryant-Link Co. store, was installed as vice president. Mrs. E. M. Wilson is secretary of the chamber.

SOMEONE CARES

It doesn't matter who you are, You are somebody's guiding star. You've failed more times than you would tell; But yet somebody thinks you're swell. Somebody follows where you lead; You are the courage someone may need. Somebody thinks the world of you— You'll break their heart if you're untrue.—Raymond Orner.

NINE LESSONS IN LIVING

Learn to laugh—a good laugh is better than medicine.
 Learn to attend to your own business. Few men can handle their own well.
 Learn to tell a story. A well-told story is like a sunbeam in a sick room.
 Learn to say kind things—no body ever resents them.
 Learn to avoid nasty remarks—they give neither the hearer nor the speaker any lasting satisfaction.
 Learn to stop grumbling. If you can't see any good in the world, keep the bad to yourself.

Learn to hide aches with a smile—nobody is interested anyway.
 Learn to keep troubles to yourself—nobody wants to take them from you.
 And, above all, folks, coming from me: Learn to smile—it pays.—Henry Hicks.

The Remedy.
 When you're feeling so blue that no sunshine breaks thru And you haven't the ghost of a smile, Then hunt up a few who are bluer than you And try cheering them for awhile.

You always can find, if you're really inclined Someone you can save from despair
 Your blueness will fade and a rosy pink shade
 Will dawn in your skies everywhere.
 The sun comes to shine and life's fare is fine
 Your Troubles are packed on a shelf.
 In cheering another, some down-hearted brother
 You will find you have cheered up Yourself.

GOOD WORK BY BOYS

Continued winning by livestock of Hamlin area club boys during recent months may become monotonous to some of the older heads—but we must not permit that situation to exist. In fact, such sustained records being made by the future farmers and ranchers should be a boon for manifested praise and encouragement from the boys' elders.

Work of T. C. Blankenship and H. V. Eades with the vocational agriculture boys at Hamlin High School has been outstanding for several years. Prize winning by the boys' animals and fowls may seem like it is an easy, matter-of-course thing. But that is not the natural consequence.

Months of hard work and planning and nursing and feeding go into the growing of a champion animal—ask any of the boys, and they will tell you.

As we glory in the sustained winning ways of our youngsters, let us put outward expressions to our feeling of pride, and tell those club boys that we appreciate their efforts and the results they are obtaining.

Definitely, the by-products of winning awards at shows will be improved strains of calves, hogs, sheep and capons, which in the end are the things in which the boys and the people as a whole are interested.

Hail to our club boys for their winnings now and the contribution to better farming and ranching for the future!

LET'S PLAY AT HOME

Movement by several Hamlin business men and others to revamp the Lakeview Golf Club facilities is gaining in momentum, and the town seems destined to have a golf course soon that will be a credit to a city much larger than Hamlin.

After a lull in the playing fever of some of our golfers, with subsequent loss of membership of some of the game's most ardent supporters, the fairways and greens of the Lakeview Club were permitted to deteriorate. With the loss of interest and depletion of the playing course went several players to neighboring towns.

But now with the renewed interest plus the prospect of a number of new members, it is safe to assume that before many moons there will be little attraction for local golfers to go away from home for their golfing.

As the result of the general conference held Tuesday evening at the city hall, not only will the golf playing course itself come in for improvement, but plans call for the erection and equipping of a golf club at the course southwest of town.

If you are interested in golfing, or just in participating in the other activities of a good country club, get in the movement now underway to establish a club of which all of this area will be proud.

A test of good manners is being able to put up with bad ones.

STOP, LOOK, LISTEN OF CONVERSATION.

Of all the roads to unpopularity there isn't a shorter, surer path than talking all the time. Especially if the talk is about yourself. Don't bore others with your unsolicited biography.

Stop to give the other person a chance to say something. You may feel you are an unusual person and the world should be told about it. Well, perhaps the other fellow feels the same way about himself.

Look for signs of boredom in your listener's face. You can spot that gone-thither look when he is concentrating on ways of getting away from you and your conversation, if you will only look for it.

Listen with all your attention while the other person talks to you. Don't be so pre-occupied with your own affairs that you can't give generously of yourself to the problems and plans of other people. The good listener is popular. Besides being helpful and pleasant to others while listening to them, you get outside yourself—and that surely will do you good, too.

Jones and Fisher County citi-

an opportunity to present their problems to a state committee at meeting slated next month at Wichita Falls and Stamford.

Senators Rogers Kelley of Edinburg and George Moffett of Chil-

Water Code Committee and of the steering sub-committee, respectively, announced in Austin
this week that the next regional meetings of the committee will be held in Amarillo on March 20, in Wichita Falls March 21, and in Stamford March 22.

The committee has decided to hold two more regional hearings,
one in Dallas and one in Houston,
following the Northwest Texas meetings and before May 1. After that date no more regional meetings will be held, and the committee will devote its energies to the preparation of its report and recommendations for submission at the next regular session of the Legislature. Several state-wide meetings will probably be held in Austin during the year as progress

Farm Work Power Changes on Farms to Be Tabbed in Census

Farmers of the Hamlin area are concerned with the proposed new farm census that will be conducted in Jones County in April.
Changes in the kind of work power on farms since 1945 will be determined from the 1950 census of agriculture, to be conducted as part of the seventeenth decennial
census of the United States.

Each farm operator in Jones
County, along with the farmers in all parts of the nation, will be asked to report the number of horses and mules and the number of tractors and year of the latest tractor model on his farm.

Computations based on farm operators' reports in the 1945 census of agriculture showed that 554,675 farms, or 9.5 per cent, reported tractors only; 1,462,116,
or 25 per cent, reported tractors
and work animals; and 3,842,098,
or 65.8 per cent reported no tractors. Of the farms without tractors, 1,569,542, or 26.8 per cent of all farms reported on horses or mules.

What Was Spent By Farmers Will Get Census Study

In the 1950 census of agriculture Jones County farmers will be asked to report the amount of cash expenditures they made in 1949 for a number of selected items entering into the cost of operating their farms. In addition, they will report on amount of taxes paid (or payable) on land and buildings owned. Farmers in all parts of the nation will make these reports in April during the seventeenth decennial census of the United States.

The selected expense items on which farmers will report their cash outlays are labor hire, machine hire, machinery and tractor repair, feed purchases, livestock and poultry purchases, gasoline and other petroleum fuel and oil purchased for farm business, and purchase of seeds, bulbs, plants and trees. Inquiries on expenditures for machine hire, for machinery and tractor repair, and for seeds, etc. are being made for the first time. Inquiries on expenditures for new machinery and for fertilizer and liming materials, made in other census, have been dropped.

In 1944, the year covered by the last farm census, a total amount of $1,861,000,000 was reported by 2,799,026 farms for hired labor compared with $781,000,000 by 2,260,237 farms in 1939 and $1,098,000,000 by 2,888,999 farms in 1919.

Feed purchases amounting to $2,427,000,000 were reported for 1944, by 4,271,642 farms compared with $732,000,000 in 1939 by 3,342,715 farms and $1,097,000,000 in 1919 by 3,511,121 farms.

Expenditures for gasoline and other petroleum fuel and oil purchased for farm operations were first reported in 1939 with a total of $323,000,000 by 2,886,614 farms.

Care of Pecan Tree Lehmberg Subject

Care and management of your pecan tree is not complete without insect control. Even with the right variety growing in good soil, you may lose a pecan crop or have the growth of the tree checked by attacks of uncontrolled insects says, Bill Lehmberg, Jones County Agent.

Here are the chief bug threats to your pecan tree and recommendations for controlling them. The obscure scale, is a small insect that is covered with a circular waxy scale and is ashy gray in color. They are found on the tree bark and they feed on the juices of the tree. It can be controlled by using a three per cent dormant oil spray. This spray should be used only when the tree is completely dormant.

The pecan phylloxera or gall insect is the bug that makes the little green balls or galls on the new leaves in the spring. The galls contain the white, wingless, gnat-like insects. They cannot be controlled after the gall or ball is formed. If they were present last year, then a three per cent dormant oil spray applied during the dormant season will give control when used in combination with a second spraying in the spring. Apply this one when the leaves are about one-third grown and use one pint of black-leaf 40 and one quart of summer oil per 100 gallons of water.

Aphids or plant lice, cause two types of damage to pecans. They suck the juice from the leaves and secrete honey dew on the leaves and this causes the leaves to shed. Satisfactory control can be obtained by thoroughly spraying the tree with one pound of 12 per cent gamma benzene hexachloride wettable powder to 100 gallons of water. Another recommended spray is one pint of Black leaf 40 and three or four pounds of soap in 100 gallons of water.

Webworms conceal themselves in the large webs which they build around the pecan tree limbs. They destroy the leaves within the web and then move to a new location. If only a few webs are present, they may be burned out with a torch, but if the infestation is heavy, the tree should

Library Service Up for Study At Teachers' Meet

Hamlin area citizens interested in community library service are invited to attend a joint meeting of the library section of the Oil Belt Teachers Association and District 3 of the Texas Library Association Saturday afternoon at 2:25 o'clock at Hardin-Simmons University library in Abilene. A number of Hamlin teachers and others will attend the conference.

Thelma Andrews, chairman of TLA District 3 and librarian at Hardin-Simmons University, will direct a panel discussion of library development in Texas in relation to national standards with particular emphasis on library development in West Texas. Participants on the panel will be Bryan Bradbury, Abilene attorney and member of the Carnegie Library Board; Marie Haney, Sweetwater High School librarian; Mrs. Margaret Hoyal, San Angelo and Tom Green County librarian; Robert Nail, Albany citizen; and Mattie Ruth Moore of Austin, director of the library division of the State Department of Education and first vice president of the Texas Library Association.

be sprayed with a solution of three pounds of arsenate of lead to 100 gallons of water or three pounds of 50 per cent wettable DDT powder to 100 gallons of water.

According to Lehmberg, the pecan nut casebearer is considered the most destructive pecan insect. After the pecan trees come into bearing, they should be sprayed annually to control this insect. Spray the trees thoroughly with three pounds of 50 per cent wettable DDT powder and six to eight pounds of wettable sulphur to 100 gallons of water. The application should be made when the tip end of the small nutlet clusters turns brown. This will usually be between May 1 and May 20. Each limb from bottom to top must be thoroughly wet with the spray and this can best be done with a good power sprayer.

KITCHEN MEMO
BY JEAN CLARKE
A variation on the porkapple combination will be welcomed by economical cooks who serve this inexpensive meat frequently. For Pork Patties mix together 1 1/2 lbs. lean pork, 1 cup evaporated milk, 3/4 cup rolled oats, 3/4 tsp. powdered sage, 2 tps. salt, 1/4 tsp. pepper. Put into greased cups, bake in slow gas oven (325°F.) 45 mins. or until brown. Meanwhile, remove cores from 2 medium-sized apples. Cut each crosswise into three rings. Dip both sides of sliced apples into 3 tps. sugar. Brown in 1/4 cup shortening. Remove pork from cups and top each piece with apple rings. Fill center of apple slices with jelly. We suggest 6 tps. sharp jelly. Serves 6.

Egg yolks stored in your gas refrigerator keep moist when covered with oil, milk or water.

If you have a hollover in your gas oven, sprinkle salt over it to prevent smoke and odor. Allow the oven to cool, clean up immediately.

Sausage companion: Sprinkle toasted buttered enriched bread with grated orange rind and sugar. Put in broiler 4" from flame. Broil until sugar bubbles.

AN EASY WAY TO BE A PHILANTHROPIST

You can find plenty of people who mistakenly think that our government is using the taxpayers money to give farmers electricity. There are propagandists who promote this mistaken belief for their own selfish interests.

We'd like to point out that Uncle Sam's "generosity" in this case is not costing a cent of the taxpayer's money. The loans which the Rural Electrification Administration makes to rural electric systemse like ours have to be repaid—with interest.

Five years from the date we receive a loan, we have to begin repaying it. At the end of thirty-five years, we will have repaid about $1.35 for every $1.00 we get from the government. Together with other rural electric systms, we have already repaid more money—in principal and interest—than was loaned during the entire five years before June 30, 1940.

Operating as a locally-owned, locally controlled business, we have to run our system efficiently enough to meet all of our payments when they are due and at the same time carry out our objective—getting electricity to every farmer in our area who wants it.

(A Short Story)

By RICHARD HILL WILKINSON

THE DAY THAT SANDHOLE
turned out to honor retiring Sheriff Amos Blair, the sheriff's son, Milt, killed a man.Red Saladine brought Amos the news. Milt, Red said, had been drinking, and when Joe Howe came into the Paradise saloon, Milt accused him of stealing his girl. Joe took exception, and invited the sheriff's son to step outside. Milt drew his gun and shot Joe in the back.Amos listened to the story and the muscles in his neck grew taut
and his thin lips pressed themselves together. He turned abruptly and strode away.Late that night former Sheriff Amos reached his ranch. He went inside and took down the brace ofHis body grew straight, and a light came into his eyes that was similar to that which had dwelt in the eyes of his father.six-shooters with the worn walnut handles and buckled them about his waist.Outside, he roped a fresh mount, and headed into the hills. As he rode Amos thought of his son Milt.
He thought of the day Milt's mother had died and the oath he had taken to care for the boy and rear him according to the code that was the only creed men respected in this wild and untamed land. A code of courage and honesty and square

ing a sextant to determine a ship's

his son had come here often to hunt and fish and talk and plan for the future. None but they knew of the hideout's existence. It was their secret, a refuge to which both escaped when the cares of the life they lived down below lay heavy.At regular intervals during the next hour he studied the country below. Hope was smoldering in his breast, when suddenly a speck
moved across the enlarged vision.
The old man's body became rigid.He kept the glasses glued to his eyes for a 15-minute stretch. Then he slowly lowered them. His whole body seemed to sag. An indescribable sadness came into his eyes.He turned and with cragging steps went back into the cabin. It was as he had feared. Milt was coming to him for sanctuary. Milt knew he would be at the hideout. He lacked the courage to face the thing alone.He had no scruples about the disgrace he would bring upon his father. And because Amos remembered the dying look in the eyes of Milt's mother he knew that he could not turn the boy away.He stood for a moment, a beaten old man, bitter, unhappy. Then abruptly he lifted his head and straightened his figure and one hand stole toward the gun that remained in its holster.A quarter mile below on the trail that led up from the desert
young Milt Blair heard the muffled report of the gun and drew up suddenly. The terror that had dwelt in his eyes during the past hour was replaced by curiosity, then a new and strange fear. His quick breathing grew still. Without looking back again he urged his fati-gued mount to a faster gait.Entering the cabin, young Milt saw first the gun on the table. Then he saw his father's still figure sprawled across the floor.He stood for a minute without moving, and in that moment he heard his father's voice as though the old man still lived and were once more teaching him the code of the desert.A female figure used in archi-

A SENSIBLE LABOR POLICY
A great labor organization got down to earth the other day with some real thinking on a resolution for the new year. An Associated Press story from Washington dated December 26 said: "The American Federation of Labor today proposed that management and labor get together in that labor get a wage increase as 1950 to cut production costs and its share of the result in saving."

That's talking straight turkey. Labor is right in suggesting that employees deserve a share of what is saved when production costs are reduced. I believe that workers ought to have higher wages, when they can produce more goods without increasing costs in other ways. Actually, there is no sound way to increase wages—except greater productivity. Our production per man day has jumped 500 per cent during the past 100 years. That explains today's good wages.

Reward for Output.
Throughout the industrial history of America, most industries have paid about all they could afford to pay in wages. There have been some exceptions. But, in general, as productivity increased wages climbed higher. Because of modern methods and good tools, productivity per man day has doubled during the past 33 years. The reward for great output and efficiency has been a very high level of wages.

But what's been happening lately? In the past five years wages have been pushed upward by artificial means. Heavy pressure from both unions and government has shoved them upward faster than productivity has increased. Naturally, these methods create dislocations and encourage inflation. I believe we have reached the point where any further steps in that direction would bring unemployment and encourage depression.

Now this A. F. of L. plea that labor join with management to bring down production costs for the purpose of obtaining higher wages is a real ray of hope. It makes exceeding good sense. For example, I am told that in the housing industry the cost of laying brick could be brought 'way down, with the right kind of co-operation of employees and management. Here is a condition that has hurt construction progress and slowed the building of homes throughout the nation.

I understand that a good bricklayer can lay 800 to 1,200 bricks a day without much difficulty. However, a good many builders have told me that the union will allow their bricklayers to put up only 350 to 400 per day. If this industry represents a fair example of what could be done with full cooperations of labor and management, surely there are great strides to be made in the years ahead toward achieving higher living standards for the people of America.

Double It Again?
Experts tell us that America's living standard have advanced in direct proportion to productivity per man day. This simply means that increased production will bring about increases in living standards. My conviction is that good labor management cooperation could increase productivity per man day another 100 per cent within the next 33 years. This would bring a 100 per cent increase in living standards.

This miracle will happen again only if labor and management pull together. If they solve our industrial problems in an intelligent way America will reach higher and higher levels of output. Not only will this cooperation insure plenty of jobs and the goods we need. It will do much to reverse the trend toward statism, which threatens to reduce every American's standards of living to the same low level.

It's the Great American Habit

Flipping switches is The Great American Habit. Even children have it. And it's a habit that has given America the world's highest standard of living.

In the home, electric service is just about the smallest item in the budget, what else makes life so easy, so healthy, so comfortable?

In industry, electricity lends the employee the strength of giants. Electric motors multiply his muscular strength by dozens or even by thousands—making it possible for him to produce more, better, faster—to earn more.

Electricity is certainly a vital part of our American life yet, oddly, this country spends less than 2% of its vast income for electric service. Such a bargain in efficiency didn't happen by accident, of course. Business-managed electric industry—progressed and expanded because of investors with faith and vision, employees with skill and experience.

There are still broad fields of electric living yet to be tapped. Business men can do the job better than tax paid bureaucrats. That's always been the secret of America's progress.
